

INAUGURATE MEN'S PRAYER MEETINGS

FIRST OF SERIES OF MORNING MEETINGS HELD MONDAY—UNION REVIVAL CHOIR SINGS ON COURT HOUSE LAWN PREVIOUS TO EVENING MEETING IN AIRDOME.

PICTURE SHOW CLOSES

Every day shows some new developments in the union revival. Monday inaugurated a business men's prayer meeting for every morning this week until Saturday. This is not for men of the church only but for men who want to be Christians. Another new thing was the presence of the choir on the court house lawn before the evening service, singing some of the old hymns and then marching to the Airdome singing, "We're Marching to Zion." Another very noticeable thing at that same time was that the graphophone at the Blake theater was silent. What is better the proprietors say it shall remain silent until Saturday night. They were getting their part of the folks but saw that the young people who were coming to the shows should be at the revival services. That is giving the meetings the right-of-way. It is a mighty fine start in the right direction. If every one will just help where he can this will be the best week Greencastle ever saw. Lend a hand.

Monday night's service was a great service in every way. The reservation made for men was fairly well filled. There were more than enough men at the meeting to fill it, but some chose to sit in other parts of the building. We venture there was not a man there who did not enjoy the service tremendously. After these meetings are over some men are going to wake up to the fact that they have missed one of the best things that ever came near to them. Those same men will wake up too late to get into Heaven if they do not look out.

Mr. Osborn has a way of saying to his singers, "Now lift up on this song." Evidently that is a Kansas remark. But it is all right. Certainly a fellow feels when they are lifting that he is being lifted. Mr. Runyan preached like "a house afire." His text was, "Therefore if any man be in Christ Jesus he is a new creature." Again he made it plain by the character of his sermon that he is not working for numbers in this meeting, but is looking well to quality. He wants to see men new in Christ Jesus. Joining the church may change a man's environment, but a new creature in Christ would seek a place in some church. To one young lady who asked if she could not be a Christian without belonging to any church he said, "You perhaps could. We have men who have no homes, no business, no work, yet they get a living. I would not advise anyone to become a religious tramp." This gave him an opportunity to say a word to the "dear brethren," who have their church letters in their trunks. Usually that old letter is about all the religion those people have. They have lost out without knowing it. They have no church. They have starved out. The handouts they got as they went from church to church have not kept them alive.

He made the man, who excuses himself from being a Christian on the ground that some men are hypocrites, feel like thirty cents. He granted that a man can find that species of individuals if he is looking for them. But he said there are always plenty of good folks and they are much better to look at. A friend with a fine load of apples told him to pick out a box full and send home to the folks. He said he did not pick out the specked, and deformed and bruised apples. He picked out the very best. The man who goes to picking out hypocrites shows what kind of a man he is himself. When he might be taking

LEANS FROM CAR INSTANTLY KILLED

LEONARD FORD, VANDALIA BRAKEMAN, MEETS SUDDEN DEATH WHEN KNOCKED FROM TRAIN NEAR CLAYTON MONDAY.

LIVED AT VERSAILLES

Leonard Ford, age twenty-six years, of Versailles, Ind., a brakeman on the fast Vandalia mail train, passing through this city at 12:30 (noon), was instantly killed Monday when he fell from the train at a point near Clayton. Ford is supposed to have leaned out from the steps of the train and was struck by a water tank. His body was hurled to the track, death being instantaneous. Other members of the train crew did not know Ford was missing until the train arrived at Limesdale, when a message was awaiting them. The message, a telegram, asked if a mail clerk from the train was missing. An investigation developed the fact that Ford, a brakeman, was missing.

Ford was a clean out young man and was a general favorite with the trainmen. The coroner of Hendricks county was called to the scene and sent the body to an undertaking establishment at Clayton, where it was prepared for burial and later sent to Versailles.

When found the body of Ford was lying about ninety feet from the water tank. His head was crushed and he had another injuries. A membership card of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, of Terre Haute, and other papers found in his pockets led to his identification. His watch stopped at 12:44, just the time he was killed. Ford formerly lived at Indianapolis, but he later moved to Versailles. His mother lives in Tanglewood.

PUTNAM FAMOUS FOR CATTLE AND—DEMOCRATS!

The following article appeared in a recent issue of the Frankfort Crescent, written from here by E. H. Staley, who is visiting his daughter, Mrs. Searles, at the Delta Tau Delta house:

Greencastle, Ind., July 24, 1912.

I write this from the county seat of Putnam county, the home of the famous Kentucky blue grass. This is a veritable truth vouched for by the descendants of the early settlers of this good old Putnam county, who originally came from the vicinity of Lexington, Kentucky, and settled here. This county, all underlaid by limestone, is the best grazing country in the state; here blue grass fully equal to timothy, if not better, had its origin; by cultivation and crossing was brought to the perfection which has given it such a celebrity. The seed from Putnam county blue grass was sent back to Kentucky where lime stone is the underlying rock, as here, and Putnam county blue grass acclimated there and some celebrated horses raised in and about Lexington, both have achieved a world-wide fame. But all the same the grass whose habitat is wherever there is an underlying limestone is known through all the country north and south.

The County.

Putnam county has a population in the census of 1910, of 20,520, now say 22,000; this is much less than Clinton county. This county, except along the bottoms of Rocky Fork of White river, northern part of the county is no corn country at all. The corn I did see along that stream, was but little more than knee high, looked stunted. The spring rains hurt the farm land badly. The soil here is but moderately adapted to wheat; oats do well, but grass is the crop here, the regular Kentucky blue grass they now call it. It is a great cattle country. Nearly three quarters of a century ago, Dr. Stevenson, one of the old Kentucky settlers came here, bought more than 1,000 acres of good grass land, saw its capabilities, went to England, imported the first Short Horn cattle ever brought to the state, and became a great stock raiser; from that time on Putnam county was famous for its cattle and—democrats!

Big Farmers.

The reason why the county has not grown in population, is because there are too many vast farms like that of Dr. Stevenson's; there must be a few more first-class farmers—Clinton county has passed through that stage in its growth—to divide up those big farms ranging now from 1,000 to 2,400 acres. The dividing up process has already commenced and will continue.

The City.

Greencastle, the county seat, is now one of the prettiest small cities in the state and it has been mostly made so in the past 50 years, as when I was here in Old Asbury as DePauw was then known, it was a sleepy old village sure enough. But it waked up. They set the architect to work in the construction of their homes as well as their public buildings, employing almost wholly an Italian-English style to which nearly all buildings, the court house, the churches, the university buildings, the two library buildings conform. Shade trees were set out on all the public tracts, the private lot also, until now Greencastle presents a sylvan appearance of the most beautiful style. E. H. S.

Small Wreck on the Van.

A small wreck occurred on the Vandalia near Reelsville yesterday morning when a draw-bar on a freight car dropped, throwing the car off the track. The wrecking train was sent for and soon had the car back on the rails. Traffic was tied up for a short time. There was little damage.

Men's Meeting.

A short prayer meeting for business men and others about the square and in the downtown business district will be held in the assembly room of the court house at 8:30 o'clock tomorrow morning, and every morning this week except Saturday. Leader for Wednesday is George Wilson. Every man who can do so should come and bring a man.

STREET WORK IS AGAIN DELAYED

LEAKY BOILER AND LACK OF STONE IS HOLDING UP THE IMPROVEMENT WORK—MAY NOT COMPLETE STREETS THIS WEEK.

TWO MEN WORKING TODAY

Again the square improvement work is delayed. Again the boiler in which the asphalt is melted has sprung a leak. And again there is no stone. As the result only two men are working on the square improvement today. They are working at repairing the boiler.

It had been hoped that the downtown streets could be completed this week but now it looks as though they would not be finished until next week. It probably will take two days to fix the boiler. Then it will take another day to complete the Indiana street work.

This will leave the east Washington street block to be completed. Another layer of 2½-inch stone must be put on this block and the men, who are now laying off, could be doing this if they could get stone. But there is no 2½-inch stone at the quarry and probably will not be until Thursday. So the street work is again delayed and the prospects are that the work will not be completed before the last of next week.

POLITICAL SITUATION AS SEEN BY SILAS SLOCUM.

The following letter, under the heading "politics," appeared in a recent edition of the Crawfordsville Journal:

MY DEER OBEDIAH:

I just received your interesting letter asking me to advise you how to vote this year. My dear boy, you was born a democrat; your grand father was a ole Virginia democrat and your ole dad, Silas Slocum, is a Virginia democrat and you was born down there too so you see, as the hi brow says, you air a democrat by birth, by edukashun and environment. Don't peer like as how you needed any advice from me or anybody else. I'll hav to admit the situashun is pekuliar. But cum to recollect every campaign is pekuliar, somethin' always makes it pekuliar. Fer twenty years after the war the republicans waved the bloody shirt every campaign. The ole bloody shirt weer a winner, it got a red ribbon jist as regular as milkin' time. But it finally played out and they took up the hi protective tariff issue. They said hi protection made hi wages and the foreigner pade the tax. The demokrat orators denide it til their tongues hung out; they said wages was made hi by the labor union and that the consumer pade the tax. It took the peepul a long time to wake up to the truth but they finally did. But the republicans went rite along winnin' on the tariff idee for years. In the meantime along cumms Wm. J. Bryan and tells 'em what this ole tariff was a doin' to 'em. He tole 'em how it made millionaires and these with the politikal bosses was ruinin' the country. But the republicans jist lafed at Bryan; said he was a alarmist and a windjammer. But Bill, he jist kept right on a plowin'. After awhile a lot of smart republicans see a storm a cumin, and they begin to run for shelter. They see the peepul beginn' to take Bryan seriously and they said they believed there was aumthin' rong. First thing you no republicans, like La Follette, Dolliver and Cummins begin makin' progressive speeches jist like Bryan. A hole crowd of republican speakers adopt Bryan ideas and everybody gits the progressive ideas. That made a lot of peepul laf republicans ever lafed at that. And rite here is where the hole trouble for the republican party cumms in. The man had seen the storm a cummin' and who ducked first was Teddy Roosevelt. He was smart enough to see that sum men in the demokrat party who at hart was republicans and there was a hole lot of men in republican party who at hart was democrats. The big financiers and manufacturers of all parties was mostly republicans in principle while the rank and file of all parties was taken up with this new progressive idee. Teddy Roosevelt saw the end of the republican party who at hart was on so he throwed his hat in the ring and said he would run for president agin. But here is where the big Bull Moose made a mistake. He went into the republican convention and after ole Bill Taft had run the steam roller over him 'til he was down and out, he went out and started a third party. Teddy may be sincere in his progressive noshun; one thing sure his followers air. So that it seems to me the best thing to do is, if they want to vote for a real for sure progressive ticket, is to vote for Wilson. Why vote for the imitashun when you kin git the real thing? Teddy Roosevelt and his followers air in the right church but they air in the rong pew. They should git in the Wilson seat.

It peers to me now like Mr. Taft ain't goin' to be in this here race at all. The race is goin' to be between Teddy and Wilson and it looks like Wilson ort to win. You no Obediah, it is said the democrats always kin be depended on to make some bad brake jist in time to elect a republican ticket. But I don't see how under the sun, by heck, the democrats kin make enough bad brakes to defeat 'em this year.

I see Teddy is for Iowan women to vote. Now your mother, Nancy Slocum, is agin' women votin'. As I hav always found Nancy rite on everything else, I am powerful afeard of opposin' her in this matter. Nancy is all riled up and says she is opposed to women votin' and riden straddle. Your sister, Deborah, says she is for both; she says she is a progressive. Debby has been mixen up with some of them hi rollers up town.

Now Obediah, here is the politikal situashun in a nut shell. A lot of republicans air a goin' to vote for Wilson; the gold bug democrats air a goin' to vote for Taft; and some democrats air a goin' to vote for Roosevelt.

Now Obediah, vote as you like, and as they say in secret societies, be keeful how you cast your ballot. Weepin' Willer Farm, July 26th. Frum your luv'n' father, SILAS SLOCUM.

22 MENTIONED FOR THE PLACE

APPOINTMENT OF TWO MINISTERS AS COMMITTEE TO CHOOSE NEW PRESIDENT FOR DePAUW PROBABLY MEANS THAT NEXT CHIEF EXECUTIVE OF SCHOOL WILL NOT BE A LAYMAN.

A LONG LIST OF ELIGIBLES

The new president of DePauw university, to succeed Bishop Francis J. McConnell, who resigned after his election to the episcopacy of the Methodist Episcopal church, will not be chosen until Sept. 2, a short time before the opening of the college year. A meeting of the board of trustees was held in the office of Hugh Dougherty, president, Monday morning, and a list of twenty-two eligible men was discussed, but the question was left in the hands of a committee appointed at the last meeting, and composed of the Rev. E. C. Bacon of Hammond and the Rev. George R. Switzer of Lafayette, who will report at the fall meeting.

The names of the men considered were not made, but it is known that several prominent pastors of the church are on the list. Directly after the election of President McConnell as bishop, the student paper of DePauw protested against what it termed the use of the university as a training place for bishops and said that, while it rejoiced with the other friends of Bishop McConnell in his promotion, yet it felt that the interests of the school required that the next president should be a layman, who would not be called upon to choose between the church and the college.

No expression upon this phase of the situation could be obtained yesterday, but it was the general impression that the appointment of two ministers as a committee, virtually with powers of final decision, indicates that another minister will be chosen.

Bishop Edwin Holt Hughes, formerly president of DePauw, whom Bishop McConnell succeeded, attended the meeting in his capacity as a member of the board of trustees. He is stationed in San Francisco.—Indianapolis Star.

Earning
Money

"I never before realized how rich I am!" declared the little stenographer.
"Last Wednesday evening I discovered, to my amazement, that Croesus and I are in the same class."

"Tell me about it," said the bookkeeper. "The firm profits so greatly by our invaluable services that we are entitled to relax a little in business hours."

"It was the Ladies' Aid society," explained the little stenographer. "About a month ago the president requested each one of us to bring five dollars to be earned by our individual efforts. The money was to be provided in one month from that day. It was for a special purpose and we all promised that we'd do as requested."

"There aren't many other girls in that society. They're mostly married women. So they talked and talked and wondered how on earth they could earn five dollars apiece. They went on that way for two hours after the meeting was over. You see, they weren't supposed to bring any money that was given them—so they couldn't ask their husbands to help them."

"Well, last Wednesday evening the month was up. Of course, I just took a five dollar bill that I'd saved from my last check, so I was perfectly safe.
If I hadn't earned it myself I wouldn't have been able to bring it!"

"We got there rather early—every one was anxious to see if every one else had brought five dollars. And oh, they looked so worn out and tired, and some of them even looked cross!"

"When the meeting began we all began to tell how the money was earned—and that's what gives me my wealthy sensation!"

"You know Mrs. Ward. Her husband owns nearly half the city, I believe, and she has all sorts of motor cars and wears orchids all winter!
Well, she brought only $1.30! She was almost in tears about it and she offered to give the other 70 cents, if they'd let her, out of her husband's money. Everybody was anxious to hear why she'd failed to earn the full amount. What do you suppose she'd done? Pressed her husband's trousers!"

"She said she had started right in —for she could charge only ten cents a pair—and she knew there were only thirty days in a month. So she hunted up all the trousers her husband owned and pressed them the first day.
Then each day she pressed the pair he had worn the day before—and then she tried to persuade him to change his trousers at noon sometimes so she could press two pairs a day, but he refused. She was counting up the days, and at the rate she was going she couldn't possibly get the five dollars before the month was up! She made him pay her each day. Finally, near the end, in despair, she took all the pairs of trousers out of the closet again and, finding she said, that they were a little wrinkled from hanging so long, she pressed them once more.
It was that performance that ended her earning powers. Her husband said that a tailor was cheaper and did the work better."

"Mrs. Cullen—you know, she gives presents worth hundreds of dollars to the church every little while. She fairly keeps it running at times. Well, she sold magazine subscriptions! She said that she found all her friends already were subscribers for all the magazines she had for sale. Finally she had to canvass the streets, and yet in order to make up the five dollars she was compelled to sell three subscriptions to herself and then give away the magazines! We couldn't decide whether that was fair or not."

"Mrs. Briggs painted place cards! She said she spent most of the month in wondering what to do, and just a few days before last Wednesday she learned that a special friend of hers was giving a luncheon. So she told the friend that she'd paint place cards at 25 cents each! In ignorance, her friend took her offer, and she brought the place cards to show.
She had to laugh at it herself, for she'd never painted a thing in her life before and she thought those simple little things would be awfully easy!"

There was a little red hill—she had just three color paints and didn't know what to mix for other colors—and on the red hill was a yellow house with blue trimmings. There were the three colors—and all the em-bellishments were of the same colors.
They were really unique."

"Mrs. Bradley is a dear little old woman who just drives around and looks sweet and dainty and goes to church. She made a contract with her son to weed his whole lawn for five dollars!"

"Actually, when I got to me to tell how I earned my five dollars I really felt ashamed that I'd done it so easily.
—It didn't seem right! So Miss Brown, who is studying music and has a time making ends meet, and I went into a corner and hid while we listened. For she had earned her money easily, too.
—Just took the five dollars paid her for one Sunday's singing in the choir!"

"I wonder if all rich people feel sort of mean and incapable when they see other people working!"—Chicago Daily News.

And None of This.

"I saw a man today in court who in his work has just material to burn."

"What's his specialty?"

"He's a firebug."

KILLED IN ODD WAY

Beauty Developer Electrocuted Vain Pittsburg Chef.

Remarkable Fads of Man Who Sought to Resemble Women—All the Follies of Fair Sex Both as to Dress and Toilette.

Pittsburg, Pa.—Artificial methods utilized by him to improve his face and figure were responsible for the death of Charles Beab, French chef at the Union Depot restaurant of the Pennsylvania railroad, here, with an electric needle in his breast, the victim of a beauty craze having been electrocuted.

The unusual death of the man is the basis of wide discussion here, and everybody, including the deputy coroners who investigated the death, is puzzled as to whether the man took this unusual method of ending his life to secure notoriety, or his going out was accidental.

The man's body, when examined, was found to be molded on the lines of a woman. He wore a long pair of white corsets, attached to and under the skirt of which were heavy pads.
The chef wore long silk stockings, which were connected with the corsets with the regulation hose supporters.

At a social function recently Beab was one of the gayest, and did not return home until about one o'clock.
He almost immediately began preparing to retire, and began his regular nightly beauty development stunt.
After his face had been massaged with cold cream Beab began using an electric needle for his bust development.

He had attached the wire to an electrode in the center of his room, and standing before a mirror began working the needle in his breast. He had frequently used the needle before, and just what caused the accident may never be known.

Occupants of other apartments heard a fall, and hastening to the room found Beab dead. A physician was summoned, and after examining the body stated that death was due to electrocution. Friends were shocked when they learned of the details and conditions surrounding the death.

Although he was known as one of the most fastidious, they never suspected that he was such a slave to fashion's decrees or beauty quest.
When the victim began his manipulation he had removed his shirt and thin vest, such as women wear, and threw a fine silk shawl over his shoulders.
The trousers which he wore were of some light striped material, woven for women's wear.

When the coroner was summoned and removed the body to the morgue pending an investigation a search was made of the apartments. In the bathroom attached to the apartment was found an extensive line of beauty lotions, while in the victim's trunks and wardrobe were found numerous articles, supposed to be for the exclusive use of women.

There were also found many photographs of members of the fair sex.

NEW WAY TO COLLECT DEBT

Hazleton, Pa.—John Brill, a Hazlefour years. Brill was in the cigar

SHOT BY BURNING HOUSE

Revolver Amid Flame Sends Bullet Through Fireman's Mouth at Blandburg, Pa.

Altoona, Pa.—While engaged in fighting a $10,000 fire at Blandburg, Arthur Thomas, aged forty, was shot in the mouth by a revolver discharged by the heat in the burning building.
His lips were cut and several teeth knocked out. He spat out the ball and continued working.
Postmaster Luther Bland's block, containing postoffice and furniture store; Dr. R. W. Thompson's dwelling and office, and Mrs. Annie (Gibbs) home, all partially insured, were burned. All the mail and postal supplies were consumed.

Rabbi Forced to Yield.

Vienna.—An unusual form of strike is reported from Sochaczow, a village in Russian Poland. The population is almost exclusively Jewish, and a new rabbi, who found his congregation too frivolously inclined, forbade the holding of dances in the place altogether.
A deputation of young women waited on him and demanded that this prohibition should be withdrawn, but the rabbi remained unyielding.

All the marriageable girls of the place thereupon held a meeting and resolved unanimously not to wed until dancing was allowed again. For two months there were no marriages in Sochaczow, until at length the rabbi gave way.

WAR

STRANGE CIVIL WAR INCIDENT

Negro With Piece of Spent Ball in Head is Restored to Consciousness by Surgical Operation.

After the battle of Bull Run, when the whole country was holding up its hands in dismay and breathing hard in the realization that the war was not, after all, to be a picnic for the northern troops, I, together with many other doctors and surgeons, rushed into Washington from distant cities, writes G. Guffing Wilcox in the New Orleans Times-Democrat.

I was taken, one dark, rainy night, by an affable old negro woman to her cabin, in the outskirts of the city.

She came to me in tears: "Doc-tah, I des wisht yoh come an' see my Samson. He 'pears monst'ous curious, an' he acts des like he 'stracted'."

At her cabin I found her son, a remarkable fellow, as black as a coal and evidently an athlete, with no evidence of a wound upon his body, but with a tendency to bear off to one side as he walked, an apparent inability to talk, and possessed of a persistent effort to march and keep time to martial music, which he could not do.

Aunt Hannah told me that her son had always been strong and healthy, and that when he left Washington with the army he was perfectly sound and "des like de res' of de folks; but dey fetch him back to his po' old mammy des like yoh see him, doctah, an' I des skeered plumb outer my senses, dat I is."

I examined Samson carefully and could find not the slightest thing the matter with him, and half believed that he was shamming.

The room was whitewashed and I noticed a streak entirely around it that was so evenly drawn that it attracted my attention, but in the stirring events of those days I really paid scant heed to so trifling a case as Samson's, and so apparently trivial an indication as was that level streak on the wall.

I spent several years in Paris and in Germany after the war, and it was not until 1886 that I was back in Washington.

We had an international convention there at the time, and were taken to various public institutions, among which was a little asylum for poor and insane negroes.

In one room, as we were passing the door, I happened to observe on the whitewashed wall a well-worn streak drawn so level and circling the room so perfectly that it called to my mind a vision which I had wholly forgotten.
Before noon the next day we had Samson's small room looking like a hospital operating room, and the great black frame lay on the table under the influence of ether.

I cut open the right side of the thick skull, and sure enough, a splintered piece of bone from an old depressed fracture pressed into the brain.

I lifted it, dressed it with aseptic, and replaced skull and scalp and placed him in bed.

Then we set about reviving him.
Presently Samson opened his eyes and stared about him.

Then he asked—and it was the first

With a Tendency to Bear Off to One Side.

articulate word he had uttered for over twenty long years—"What did de army move to yesterday?"

I was too excited to reply, and no one else seemed to grasp the full meaning of the question.

Presently I said: "Forward—Richmond, Samson, but you were hurt a little and had to stay behind, and we have been doctoring you. You are all right now. How do you feel?"

"First rate, thankee, sir; first rate.
Which side licked yesterday? Ourn?"
The war and his experience up to that time when he was struck on the head, most likely by a piece of spent shell, are as if they were yesterday in his memory, and his mind is as clear and as good as the average of his race and condition, but where that mind was and how it was occupied during those years, is a never-failing query to me, all the more, perhaps, because it does not trouble or puzzle Samson in the least.

MUSINGS

If a man has no wife to find him out, his sins will.

The smaller a man's mind, the longer it takes him to make it up.

About the only way to get what you want is to ask for twice as much.

It isn't so bad to borrow from Peter to pay Paul if Peter will stand for it.

The man who talks loudest doesn't always have the largest audience.

Those who can guess right soon get the credit of having excellent judgment.

You can always get a rise out of a suffragette by telling her she is no gentleman.

By the time a man gets old he ought to have sense enough not to let it worry him.

If politeness costs nothing, why is it that so few men give any of it to their wives?

Many a young fellow who marries in haste never has a chance to get his breath again.

Many a man can't even do his duty without feeling that he is doing more than his share.

About the time a girl puts on her first long dress she begins to select her bridesmaids.

The average man can make a fool of himself almost as easily as a woman can make a fool of him.

When a girl realizes that she is as pretty as a picture she naturally wants to be looked at in her best light.

SPLINTERS

Anyway, the fool is never stingy with his folly.

Too many people want to draw their salary in advance.

And some men call swindling their neighbors honest toll.

Wise people worry over things fools may never think of.

A man should put his troubles in paw and then lose the ticket.

The average man thinks more of his wife than he is willing to admit.

The only kind of fancy work some girls enjoy is the weaving of romances.

Loafers are wise to the fact that it is always the open season for killing time.

Every man likes to believe that he is a light sleeper—even if he doesn't hear the alarm clock.

Every man hates a kicker—unless the expostulation helps to get him something he wants.

More women would probably marry for money or a title if it wasn't for the kind of men that usually go along.

A woman in Kansas accused her husband of leading a double life because she discovered that he was twice as mean as she thought him.

CAREFULLY THOUGHT OUT

Some men are too slow to win in a walk.

People in a live town never boast of its cemetery.

Why do men talk so much about women's talking so much?

Every woman sees the possibility of a garage in her old chicken house.

A married man doesn't mind being called down—to a good breakfast.

Mills may start and mills may stop, but the divorce mill grinds on forever.

Before burning your bridges behind you it might be well to have them insured.

A mother is likely to worry for fear her child's mind is so active that it will stunt its body.

A fussy old bachelor says the average woman is prouder of her beauty than of her brains—and she has cause to be.

FROM THE PENCIL'S POINT

Did it ever occur to you that foolish people seem to have a monopoly on happiness?

Every rose has its thorn—and the thorn is still on the job after the rose has withered.

The love of money is said to be the root of all evil—and the majority of us are tireless rooters.

When a woman ceases to ask her husband if he loves her it's a sign that she no longer cares whether he does or not.

If babies knew half as much as women think they do, they would probably hold a convention to decide how mothers ought to be made to behave.

POULTRY

SUMMER HOUSE FOR POULTRY

Coop Shown in the Illustration Will Provide Comfortable Place for Hens in Hot Weather.

Good poultry quarters are needed, and for warm weather the house shown in the accompanying picture will answer the purpose exceedingly well. It is built eight feet wide, 12 feet long, seven feet high in front and 4 1/2 feet at the rear. It should have a light framework, consisting of 2x4's, for the sills and caps, and sliding of inch stuff, preferably matched,

Summer House for Hens.

nailed on perpendicular as indicated, writes Fred O. Sibley in the Farm and Home.

The front, which is to face toward the south, has a good-sized window, and at each corner are two openings, 12x16 inches, for the hens to pass. In the end opposite the door there is a wooden shutter about two feet square for air and ventilation, and this, as well as the window, should have strong, fine meshed wire nailed on the outside.

The roosts are located in the rear, up under the roof, with a platform below to catch the droppings, 3 1/2 feet wide, extending the whole length of the house. Beneath this is another platform, three feet wide, for the nests. For hens on the range such a house is just the thing, and needs no floor if the location is well drained and dry. It will shelter from 50 to 60 fowls comfortably. The interior ought to be kept well whitewashed, and if the house is set in the shade of a large tree it will be all the more pleasant for the hens to go into on a hot day.
The cost of building this kind of summer "cottage" will be from $12 to $15. It pays to use good lumber, and two or three good coats of paint should be applied.

PREPARE FOWLS FOR MARKET

Apparatus Invented by Indiana Men for Injecting Water into Body After Killing.

Experts have discovered that fowls and animals are better fit for food if about 8 per cent. of their weight in water be injected into their bodies just after they are killed. This must be done before the animal heat has left the body, and the water, which

FOR THE MIDDLE-AGED WOMAN

Designs in Scarfs Are an Important Part of the General Scheme of Costuming.

Flat, narrow scarfs for stout or short women are so long that they make defined stripes running from her shoulders to her feet. These scarfs are smart-looking in black chiffon or grenadine banded at intervals with perpendicularly placed two-inch wide ribbons of velvet or satin in black or white.

Sometimes flit or Irish lace bands are employed in lieu of the ribbon, but at the ends of the scarf there should not be any trimmings other than a tassel in self color, as a fringe or any sort of banding makes a distinct break which takes from the height.

Little scarfs of soft black silk are of light-weight serge or heavy linen, the principal trimmings of the frocks that are so extensively worn by the smart dressers among middle-aged women. These little scarfs issue from under a turn-over, wide collar, with rounding corners and trimmings of black and white silk, put on as a banding border, or of hemstitched white chiffon. Either treatment has a subduing effect.

Another smart little necktie suited to the middle-aged woman is the four-in-hand in black silk with a light-hued border upon it, which gives it a little snap without rendering its wearer absurd.

TOILET HINTS FOR MY LADY

Suggestions for Proper Care of the Hair and for Improving the Complexion.

To keep hair in curl and at the same time impart a delightful fragrance to the entire coiffure, dampen it with cologne water before winding it on the iron. Leave the hair on the iron until it is quite dry. Avoid any curling fluid containing gum arabic, as it leaves a white powder when dry, and this dulls and deadens the sheen of the hair.

Serin is the most sanitary material for face cloths. This cloth is porous and free from lint, allowing a free circulation of air. It also admits of quick and effective washing and drying, so that it can be cleaned after every face bath.

Perfumed soap except of the most delicate odor, is no longer used by the woman of refined tastes. The odor of a heavily perfumed soap is acrid and penetrating, completely effacing any finer fragrance from the scent bottle or sachet. Use a pure soap devoid of perfume, and apply your favorite toilet water as an astringent after the face or hands have been bathed.

SUITS THE MANNISH STYLE

Flat Bow of Black Satin the Most Appropriate That Can be Devised.

A most unusual and good looking cravat for wear with wash silk shirts, waists made in mannish styles is of black satin. There is a flat bow of the satin and one long end of the satin made double and widening out toward the bottom.

This end is about eight inches long and is one and a half inches wide at the top and two and three-quarters inches wide at the bottom. Six round silver or gold buttons are placed at half-inch intervals at the lower end.

On some of these ties a piece of rather heavy cream flit lace is folded flat around the satin end, about an inch and a half from the bottom, and the buttons are sewed in a row on the lace.

Another black satin tie has a square bow laid in flat plaits and one long end of the double satin with a little ecru Valenciennes frilled on each side for about four inches of its length up from the lower end. The effect is very quaint.

DAINTY BLOUSE

Silver gray Arcadia silk is chosen for our dainty model, which is Magyar, and has the fronts and backs gathered and set to a shaped trimming of fancy silk or embroidery; the over-sleeves are also finished off with this, while the under ones are of nylon to match yoke.

Materials required: One yard of silk 40 inches wide.

Initials for Guest Towels.
Guest towels are still embroidered in colors, as well as white, and initials are now added in color in straight row, just above the embroidery; these towels make charming fancy work for hours spent on summer piazzas, and if one so wishes, can be had with embroidery already started. The cost varies with the quality of towel and pattern.

The first football "bear" story of the season from the local camp was one published in the Indianapolis Sun to the effect that "Skeet" Lambert, the team's clever quarterback would probably be out of the game next fall because of a badly sprained right arm which Dr. Zink of Indianapolis, said was a serious case of water on the elbow. The truth is "Skeet" was injured in the closing game of the season with the Michigan Aggies at Lansing on Thanksgiving Day. Little was thought of the injury at the time and the shift little athlete went through the basketball and baseball seasons, although his arm gave him considerable pain. In June Manager Elmer sent him to Dr. Zink and the arm was treated with beneficial results. He then went to a Michigan summer resort where he remained until a few days ago when he came to Indianapolis for further treatment. While there was at first danger of serious complications, Dr. Zink now believes he will recover completely and that the injury will not keep him out of the game next fall which will be his senior year, and his last in college athletics. "Skeet" has been a consistent point garner ever since entering Washburn and it was he who booted the ball between the posts on two occasions at Purdue, resulting in the downfall of the Boilermakers in 1910 and 1911—Crawfordsville Journal.

ONE BLOCK WEST OF POST OFFICE

POST OFFICE TO OPEN AT NIGHT

POSTMASTER LOCKRIDGE RECEIVES ORDERS TO RE-ARRANGE HIS SCHEDULE SO THAT CLERK WILL BE IN OFFICE UNTIL 10 O'CLOCK EACH EVENING.

WILL BETTER THE SERVICE

Postmaster A. G. Lockridge received instructions from the Postmaster General Tuesday morning to re-arrange the postoffice schedule so that the office will be kept open until 10 o'clock each evening.

This order follows the demand of the citizens and business men of Greencastle that the night service—recently discontinued—be restored. Petitions signed by hundreds of business men were sent to Congressman Moss, who put the matter before the postal authorities.

Monday afternoon James L. Randall received a telegram from Mr. Moss, which is as follows:

At my request Assistant Postmaster Grandfield today wired Postmaster Lockridge that letters posted before 10 o'clock p. m. must be promptly forwarded—Letter follows. (Signed) Ralph W. Moss.

At the same time Mr. Lockridge received a telegram from Grandfield informing him to see that all letters mailed in the local postoffice before 10 o'clock p. m. were pouched and forwarded. Postmaster Lockridge wired the assistant postmaster that under the present schedule, which had been approved by the postal authorities, the order could not be followed out.

At 11 o'clock this morning Postmaster Lockridge received a second message instructing him to re-arrange the schedule of the office so that the office could be kept open until 10 o'clock in the evening.

This order will assure all letters mailed before 10 o'clock in the evening will be mailed out of the office that night. For several weeks letters had to be mailed before 5:30 o'clock to go out the same evening and letter mailed later than that did not go out until the next morning.

The changing of the schedule of clerks to keep the office open until 10 o'clock will materially benefit the service, which for several weeks has been deplorable. However, there should be a clerk on duty all night, as previously, for, although the new arrangement may prove all right at this time, it probably will prove insufficient this fall, when more than 1,000 students will come to town.

The coming of this great number will so increase the work at the postoffice that the present force probably will be unable to handle the work properly.

The order, coming as it did, does not refer to the general delivery and stamp windows. These will be closed at 7 o'clock, as heretofore. The lobby will remain open, however, until 10 o'clock.

FALLS THROUGH TRAP DOOR: IS PAINFULLY INJURED.

Mrs. Frank Allee, Not Seeing Opening in the Dark, Drops Ten Feet to Cellar Floor.

Mrs. Frank Allee, wife of the well-known timber buyer, was painfully injured about eight o'clock Monday night when she fell through a trap door at her home in the north part of town, falling a distance of perhaps ten feet. She suffered a severe cut on her head, another on her arm and her entire body is so badly bruised that she is in intense suffering. Her shoulder also was injured.

Mrs. Allee did not know the trap door was open, and while walking through the dark room, stepped into the space. With a cry she pitched into the hole. She struck the cellar floor which is about ten feet from the house floor, with great force. Mrs. Allee was in a dazed condition for several hours. Dr. Hutcheson was called and is attending her. Although Mrs. Allee is slightly better today the suffering is so great that she has had little rest.

THEFTS PLAINLY VISIBLE

Fred L. McAninch, of Roachdale, who has been Republican chairman of Franklin township, Putnam county, Monday tendered his resignation and affiliated himself with the Progressive party.
"I attended the Chicago convention, as a Taft supporter," he said, "but the thefts perpetrated there were plainly visible. INAUGURATE MEN'S PRAYER MEETING.

the best he is hunting the worst. He went on to say that when this kind of men become new creatures in Christ Jesus they marvel at the good folks about them. The hypocrites are exceedingly scarce. So with all the objections that men raise between them and the Christian life. When they become new creatures these things "take care of themselves."

In response to the appeal seven went forward and professed faith in Jesus. A deep spirit of earnestness was felt throughout the congregation. At one time while the choir was not singing and no one was speaking a man remarked that it was still as death. People were more optimistic last night than ever before. Great things are expected this week.
